

WEST COAST

THE WILD WEST COAST

Stunning coastline, beautiful beaches, quaint towns and remote villages. It's no wonder that people fall in love with Scotland's west coast.

With some clever planning, groups can get a taste of the west coast, despite its remoteness. Whether it's the dramatic drive through Glen Coe, or the views to Skye, incentive groups will be in awe of Scotland's wild west coast.

WHY VISIT?

If your group want to get away from the hustle and bustle, then Scotland's west coast is ideal.

Experience delicious fresh seafood, stunning beaches, excellent sailing and outdoor adventures.

It's also great for those who love whisky as there are plenty of distilleries to explore!

BEST FOR

This area of Scotland is best for 3* and 4* small groups who don't mind travelling and are keen to relax in informal settings, spending lots of time outdoors.

Consider arriving into Glasgow or Edinburgh and leaving from Inverness for an amazing incentive across Scotland.

EXCLUSIVE

We can setup an exclusive 'glamping camp site' for your group or charter a Royal yacht for a day trip around the islands.

For an extra special touch we can even organise special train journeys to and from the area.
